JET/IA Program
Versatile Airmen
Supporting the Joint Fight

JET "Joint Expeditionary Tasking": the Air Force term used to indicate deployments under the Joint Sourcing Solution program in support of the Army
JET Airman: one who deploys into a JET position
IA "Individual Augmentee": the Air Force term for deployers filling individual positions on the Joint Manning Document (positions that could be filled by any service)

The line remarks in a deployment tasking order indicate if it is a JET or IA . These taskings require pre-deployment training above what is required for standard deployments. All JET/IA deployers complete Combat Skills Training (CST) or Combat Airmen Skills Training (CAST), and some will also go through specialty training at various locations. The commencement of this pre-deployment training can be as much as several months in advance of the actual deployment date. Adherence to line remarks is crucial to ensure properly trained and equipped airmen arrive in theater on time.
